The introduction of new methods in the teaching of psychology

Applying scientific apparatus of Christian psychology to develop new methods of teaching psychology, the author relied on three concepts. The first approach is represented by M.Monro in understanding love. The second concept is a five-step model that is stated by D. Hyuard-Mills. The third concept of P.Polischuk is a testament intimacy and love.

The purpose was to prove the importance of the introduction of new methods in the study of educational psychology. Object of research is made up of the trainings "No apologies", "Marriage is for all life", "My word," coaching "You're special" and problematic lecture "Understanding of love". The subject of the study is the reaction of students to techniques and exercises and the lecture.

The study was conducted during 2005 - 2015 years by the method of participant observation and forming experiment in Poltava State Agrarian Academy. The researcher functions as a coach.

At the beginning of the lecture the students are given the problem "What is true love? What is its source? Is there an example of love?" Then hypothesis is "True love can change the lives of everyone". The lecture includes three questions. The first issue is "Love in five aspects". This love- intimacy, love- romance, love- belonging, love- friendship and love of God. The second question of lecture is "Definition of Love." «Love is a bond of perfectness» [Col.3:14]. The third question of lecture is "Five Languages of Love". These are kind words, time, gifts, assistance and touch.

The author notes that based on the spiritual principles of building a family, students are beginning to understand that a strong family is created only on the basis of love. Training "Marriage is for life" gives young people the opportunity to know the true purpose of marriage: Training "No apology" proclaims the idea of avoidance of risky behavior that is associated with premarital sexual activity. Not less important appears a training for young people "My word". Its purpose is to learn to follow what we say and try not to use swear words. During the training, students learn slander negative impact on man and decide to give up bad words. The aim of coaching «You are special" is to believe in yourself as a person who is valuable in the eyes of God and find their own levers to achieve maximum results in various spheres of life.

The introduction of new methods in teaching psychology makes it possible to influence the spiritual development of the personality of students. Young people understand that a happy family can be created when everyone would invest in it their daily labor, finance, desire to serve one another, joy of communication. Through the influence of presented trainings in youth such traits as responsibility, courage, honesty and respect etc are trained.

In three lectures there were covered the issues like the real love of God can change the lives of different people. The source and example of love of God Himself. Jesus Christ teaches how to create happy families, educate wonderful children. The lecture proved that love is a desire to make a good neighbor and realization of this desire.
